DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The examiner of record has considered the information disclosure statements (IDS) submitted on 07/27/05 and 04/27/05.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the keyboard interface, the keyboard cable, the display screen, and the digital pen must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement-drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New

Art Unit: 2835

Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 17 being held indefinite, the examiner notes that claim 17 depends from claim 17. It is therefore, unclear to the examiner what applicant intends as the meat and bounds of claim 17. For examination purposes only, the examiner will examine claim 17 as if it depended from claim 11.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tanaka et al. (6961234). With respect to claims 1-6, Tanaka et al. teaches [claim 1] an apparatus (100) comprising a display section (110) having a back side (114) including a channel (115, 117) and a keyboard interface; a base section (120) having a keyboard (180) and coupled to the display section (110); and a support arm (140) having a keyboard cable (136), wherein a first end of the support arm (140) is adapted to join the channel (115, 117) to couple the keyboard cable (136) with the keyboard interface, and wherein a second end of the support arm (140) is attached to the base section, [claim 2] wherein the back side (114) further includes a latching mechanism (113) associated with the channel (115, 117), the latching mechanism (113) is to enable engaging or disengaging the first end of the support arm (140) to or from the channel (115, 117), [claim 3] wherein the second end is rotatable against the base section (120), [claim 4] wherein the second end is adapted to accommodate the display section (110), [claim 5] wherein the display section includes a display screen (111) on a front side, [claim 6] wherein the display screen is a touch-sensitive screen, and wherein the display section (110) is operable independent of the base section (120) as claimed see for example figures 1-15C.

7. Claims 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ghosh et al. (6780019). The applied reference has a common assignee and inventors with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131. With respect to claims 11-17, Ghosh et al. teaches [claim 11] an apparatus (10) comprising a support arm (18) to support a detachable display section (12) in an upright position when the detachable display section (12) forms an angle with a base section (14), wherein the support arm (18) is to fit between the display section and the base section (14) when the angle formed between the display section (12) and the base section (14) is increasingly reduced in a first direction, [claim 12] wherein when the angle is increasingly reduced in the first direction, a display screen (26) on the display section (12) is visible, [claim 13] wherein the support arm (18) is to at least partially wrap around the display section (12) when the angle between the display section (12) and the base section (14) is increasing reduced in a second direction, [claim 14] wherein when the angle is increasingly reduced in the second direction, a display screen (26) on the display section (12) is not visible, [claim 15] wherein the support arm (18) includes a keyboard cable (28) which to connect a keyboard (22) located on the base section (14) to a keyboard interface (32) location on the display section (12), [claim 16] wherein the display section (12) is detachable from the base section (14) by detaching the keyboard cable (28) from the keyboard interface (32), [claim 17] wherein the display screen (26) is a touch-sensitive screen and wherein the display screen (26) accepts input using a digital pen as claimed, see for example figures 1A-8. With respect to claims 18-20, Ghosh et al. teaches [claim 18] a system, comprising keyboard logic included in a base section (14) and processing logic included in a display section (12), wherein the processing logic operate with input entered using the keyboard (22) when the display section (12) is coupled to the keyboard (22) in a laptop mode or using a digital pen when the display section (12) is coupled to the keyboard (22) in a convertible mode or when the display section (12) is detached from the keyboard (22) in a tablet mode, [claim 19] further comprising a support arm (18) to support the display section (12) when the display section (12) is coupled with the base section (14) in the laptop mode, [claim 20] wherein the display section (12) includes a touch-sensitive display screen to accept input using the digital pen as claimed see for example figures 1A-8.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tanaka et al. (6961234) as applied to claims 1-6 above. With respect to claims 7-10, Tanaka et al. teaches the invention as set forth by claims 1-6 (see the above 102 rejection thereof). Tanaka et al. also teaches a front side including an array of one or more speakers (170, 172). However, Tanaka et al. lacks a teaching of a fingerprint sensor, a video camera, and one or more microphones. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made for the apparatus of

Tanaka et al. to incorporate a fingerprint sensor, a video camera, and one or more microphones as such authentication, theft prevention and/or communication means are notoriously well know means in the art, and would also be considered as design choice.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Please note the teachings of Hawkins et al. (5200913), Helot et al. (6430038), Anlauff (6903927), and Jeong et al. (7014154).
